- Computer engineering's uniqueness that such understands the variety of computer related combined programs, computer engineering helps us to further derive ourselves deep into the dream that we seek to track and to become our own profession. Gaining basic - advance knowledge about different computer courses, puts up an advantage and opportunities for us to develop and learn more than our expected capabilities.
- For me, all about programming. I mostly liked Computer engineering due to its wide reach variety to computer related stuff, but what interested me to choose computer-engineering is its different each to programming in each combined course. I can learn basic knowledge about coding languages from other courses even with learning and unraveling new topics.
